

Dear Friend,

I have had the distinct pleasure of working with Father Glenn Meaux and the Kobonal Haiti Mission for more than two decades. I've seen firsthand how the Mission has transformed the lives of the poor. I've also witnessed how one simple gift can change the life of the individual who receives it. A goat can put an entire family on the road to self-sufficiency. A scholarship can give a poor child the opportunity to dream about the future. Nutritious meals can provide hope to destitute elderly citizens. Clean water sources can lift up entire villages, while a new home can renew God-given dignity and increase the faith of people living in dilapidated shacks.

That's why I invite you to join us in what is truly Fr. Meaux's most ambitious campaign ever, in which he is asking you to "Arise and Build" — and bless the poor with safe shelter, clean water and the power of Christ.

By supporting this important outreach, you will be helping to fund 80 hurricane-proof concrete houses and three community clean-water wells to serve the needs of 90 families living in Kobonal and beyond, while strengthening the Church's presence among the poor.

Thank you for your prayers and compassion for the poor!
